May 9 Showcase – Kathleen Farrar and the Vestibule Dogs

by Dan Grove

The Vestibule Dogs, also known as the Parlor Doggies (and variously referred to by their admirers as the Porch Pooches, the Canopy Canids, les Chiens du Jour, and the Woof Wookies), will grace us with their music this month. Under the direction of their top trainer, Kathleen Farrar, they will perform an eclectic mix of musical tricks that will get everyone wagging their appendages and howling for more! The Dogs' membership is a closely guarded secret, but one of them is rumored to be singer Kim Melton.

Kathleen, a native of Takoma Park, first came to the Folk Club about eight years ago. She was frequently accompanied by her daughter Vicky back then, who was thirteen years old. None of the rest of us has aged a single day since, but Vicky is now a real estate agent (Victoria Abbott, with Keller & Williams in Tyson's Corner) who has recently achieved her first sale and her first listing. Congratulations, Vicky!

When Kathleen arrived she was single, but the Folk Club soon fixed that. Bill Farrar, a club MVP, became her friend, and, as she says, "passed the sniff test" of compatibility. Many club members attended their wedding, and some even performed, celebrating another Folk Club happy couple!

Musically, Kathleen played trumpet as a kid, which gave her the gift of hearing harmonies in music, since horn charts are inherently complex and tightly harmonized. Over time, she found herself drawn to the banjo, in bluegrass as well as other styles, and began to teach herself from books. That's what she'll play for her showcase, performing an eclectic mix of folk, old time, and maybe even bluesy tunes, as well. The Vestibule Dogs, when they can be dissuaded from chasing their tails (or others'), will rock along with her, and a general howl as the moon reaches 90% full that night can't be ruled out.

Lock up your cats and kittens, the Vestibule Dogs are here!

Roy Book Binder

Tickets $12 ($10 Members)

The Folk Club
Proudly Presents ...
7:15 PM – May 16, 2006
at the Tortilla Factory
648 Elden Street
Herndon, VA

Roy Book Binder is a genuine blues man and the most entertaining story teller on the blues circuit today. Roy began his career seeking out the Reverend Gary Davis, who taught him fingerstyle blues in the '60's. Roy toured with Rev. Davis, then later studied with the legendary Pink Anderson in South Carolina. Roy is an expert performer and historian of the Piedmont blues style, with standout songs like "Candyman", "Hesitation Blues" from Rev. Davis, "He's in the Jailhouse Now" from Pink Anderson, to name a few. Roy instructs blues at the Augusta Blues Week at Elkins College and Jorma Kaukonen's Fur Peace Ranch, and on his own three instructional videos released through Homespun Videos. Roy plays songs from Willie Brown, Blind Lemon Jefferson, Bo Carter and Blind Willie McTell better than the originals - from one whose listened to both.

Roy has nine personal recordings, starting with Travelin' Man in 1971, Git-Fiddle Shuffle in 1975, Ragtime Millionaire in 1977, Goin' Back to Tampa in 1979, Bookeroo in 1988, The Hillbilly Blues Cats in 1992 with Rock Bottom (one fine Harp player) and Billy Ochoa, Live

Book .. Don't Start Me Talkin' in 1994 with guest appearances by Jorma Kaukonen - guitarist from Jefferson Airplane and Hot Tuna, Polk City Rambler, The Radio Show and his latest Live at Fur Peace Station. Roy also has a video of his storytelling – Roy, The Reverend and the Devil's Music. Roy is a gem. His addition of bottleneck slide guitar pieces to his recent recordings is a nice complement to the wonderful fingerstyle blues he performs. The man is an entertainer. See him in a wonderful, intimate atmosphere at The Folk Club!
