October 14 Showcase – Dumb Muscle & the Divas

By Dan Grove

The Divas – “C” Culpepper, Ann Granger, and Mary Catherine (“MC”) Williams – are harmonizing singers with talent, attitude, and charm. They are accompanied by Dan (“Dumb Muscle”) Grove on guitar and bass.

The group formed at the Folk Club in 2005. MC met Dan and Ann, and later introduced her neighbor C. They didn't know what to call themselves, but when Nina Annmahian Lantis heard Dan say “You divas will have to figure it out, I'm just dumb muscle,” she said, “That's it!”

All three Divas have been singing their whole lives. MC sang in school and church groups all over the world, from Japan to the Ivory Coast and from Lebanon to Norway. C sang in bands as well as school and church groups, met her husband in a choir while in college, and teaches private voice lessons. MC and C also perform with Herndon's Towne Square Singers. Ann sang to her kids and for herself, but hadn't performed in public before her Folk Club debut three years ago (which is probably why she's the only member of the group without a nickname – the audience is welcome to supply her with one!).

Dan has been a Folk Club irregular for many years. He occasionally commits songwriting, and leads a monthly song critique for the Songwriters' Association of Washington (SAW). His job with the group is to inject some testosterone into the act, and generally make sure that things don't get too dignified. Oh, and stay out of the way to let the Divas shine, of course!

So, how many Divas does it take to screw in a light bulb, you may ask? Three, of course – one to climb the ladder with the new bulb, the second to kick the ladder out from under her, and a third to say, “I knew that was too high for you, dear.” <rimshot>

You can expect songs ranging from gospel shouts to boogie woogie bop, with some Boop and bubbly thrown in. Dumb Muscle & the Divas cordially invite you to a refined evening of musical gentility, interspersed with radical tag-team vocal aerobatics, collaborative chaotic choruses, and bumptious fun! Please, no wagering...

Barry McGuire

Tickets $16 ($15 Members)

The Folk Club
Proudly Presents ...
7:15 PM – October 7, 2008
at the Tortilla Factory
648 Elden Street
Herndon, VA

Barry McGuire has led an incredible life, to say the least. Born in 1935, and having a music career that has lasted over four decades, there is much to tell. In 1960 he bought his first guitar and started singing as a nightclub duo in California, eventually playing at the famous Troubadour venue and hanging with such notables as Hoyt Axton and Peggy Lee. In the spring of 1962, Randy Sparks was scrambling for people to make a performing group and Barry was recruited into the New Christy Minstrels. Other notable members over the years included Larry Ramos (later of The Association), Gene Clark (Byrds and solo), Ann White, Karen Gunderson, Jerry Yester (Modern Folk Quartet, Lovin' Spoonful), Mike Settle (First Edition), Kim Carnes and Kenny Rogers (First Edition and solo). In July 1962, the Christys got a one-week gig at the Troubadour that turned into a three-month gig due to popular demand. This led to television appearances on the Vic Damone and Andy Williams shows.

In October of that year, the Christys' debut album The New Christy Minstrels was released. It reached #19 in the Billboard charts, and stayed on the charts for 92 weeks. In February of 1963, the Christys' second album, "The New Christy Minstrels In Person," was released. In 1963, Barry wrote a song that was both his first composition for the Christys and the Christys' first and greatest hit single: "Green, Green." Barry co-wrote another song that made it big in 1963, but he was never to get official credit for it. The song was "Greenback Dollar." "I used rag Hoyt (Axton) about it when I saw him, and he told me how much money he didn't make on that tune, and we laughed." Barry then started his solo career with the release of The Barry McGuire Album. Besides Barry's version of "Greenback Dollar," this album has some great songs that were co-written by McGuire and Rod McKuen, like "Good Times Are All Done Now," and "Another Country." The New Christy Minstrels was eventually sold which led to the demise of the group after five very successful LP's. Moving on as a solo, Barry had "Eve of Destruction" on the charts. The Mamas and The Papas were in the studio with Barry McGuire, singing backup on a song for one of Barry's albums when the met producer Lou Adler, which led to their signing after Lou heard "California Dreaming," "Monday, Monday" and other cuts from their future first release. The Mamas and The Papas also sang backup on Barry's next album, "World's Last Private Citizen", released in 1967, which was Barry's last Dunhill album before the label was sold and Barry dropped out of sight for a time until he eventually found salvation in 1971. Renewed, Barry continues to tour internationally and has recently been featured on PBS's 60S LIVE! - MY GENERATION, MY MUSIC on WETA locally.
